
GENERAL STUDENT MEETING AT 10:00 THIS MORNING (FRIDAY).

ABBIE HOFFMAN

POSTERS ARE NOW ON SALE IN THE GRAPHIC CONTROL CENTER (old student government center). It is necessary for us to do this now to raise money to continue our efforts. The office is open from 8.00 a.m. to 10:00 p.m.

We can also screen this image on to any piece of clothing for $.50.

We need teams to volunteer for selling shirts and posters at student centers.

KARL LINN'S TEACH-IN, WHICH HAS PREVIOUSLY BEEN SCHEDULED FOR THIS PAST WEDNESDAY AND CANCELLED, WILL NOW BE HELD TONIGHT, FRIDAY, AT 8:00 P.M. IN THE AUDITORIUM.

Mr. Foss' mask people are doing nice work, but they need help. Go into B6 and make a mask.

cursing and threatening. They ignored him beautifully, but he was a most persistent bastard. Finally an office worker fended him off and a wild haired lady yelled, "Go home and sober up!" and wagged her finger at him. He stumbled off to somewhere and the dancers packed up in their cars.

It had been a great show-even some construction workers found it worth watching!

DR. SHEA WILL HOLD AN OPEN DISCUSSION CALLED "COPING WITH CONFLICTING EXPECTATIONS AT A TIME OF SOCIAL PROTEST" ON TUES. AT 1 P.M. IN ROOM B8

MASS. ART AND OTHER LOCAL ART SCHOOLS HAVE BEEN ASKED TO SUBMIT "PROTEST ART" TO AN EXHIBITION PROPOSED FOR CITY HALL, JUST OFF THE FRONT FOYER. THIS WILL TAKE PLACE ALL OF NEXT WEEK, FROM MONDAY UNTIL FRIDAY. ALL WORK MUST BE AT CITY HALL BY 1:00 ON MONDAY. FRANK SICCONI IS LOOKING INTO THE POSSIBILITY OF BRINGING THE LIFE/DEATH BELL TO PERFORM IN FRONT OF CITY HALL.

MORE REACTIONS
(THESE REACTIONS COME FROM A GROUP OF PEOPLE WHO WORK AT THE SHIELDS WARREN RADIATION LAB ACROSS FROM THE CHILDREN'S INN, AND HAVE LONG BEEN SYMPATHETIC TO THE GOINGS-ON AT MASS. ART)

... "Goddamn, they've finally done it..they've gone out and bought mechanical men."

Dr. David Smith
... "It looks really alive over there now compared to Harvard. Can we plant vegetables in the garden?"

Lynn Harding,
researcher

... "The bell causes very impressive traffic jams. Right on. Seriously, it's really great that they're doing something constructive."

Barbara Otto, researcher

... "It's an asset to the community-Mass. Art has a stimulating environment."

Jonathan Harwood

... "Just beautiful."

Helen Grate,
researcher

... "As a symbol, very impressive, nothing more, nothing less."

Dr. James Belli

NATIONAL ECONOMIC BOYCOTT

The National Economic Boycott has been planned to influence Nixon economically through large corporations. Research was undertaken to determine which products would be most effective to boycott. Results showed national companies that are not conglomerates to be the most susceptible. Coca-Cola, and Phillip Morris are only a beginning — oil companies and automobile manufacturers are currently being researched.

The products chosen are easily substituted by other brands. Both soft drinks and tobacco are such competitive industries that a slight financial loss will cause panic and fear of permanent loss of consumers to a similar product of a rival company. Already Coca Cola and Phillip Morris have begun negotiations with the National Economic Boycott committee. These companies, however, will continue to be boycotted until they take a public stand against the war, and to use advertizing and their powerful congressional lobbies for the purpose of ending the war. When these companies convince us that they have a definite commitment to ending the war, we will discontinue the boycott on that company.

PRODUCTS TO BE BOYCOTTED:

COCA COLA COMPANY: COKE, FRESCA, TAB, SPRITE
FANTA, HI-C, MINUTE MAID, SNOW CROP, REAL GOLD
FRUIT DRINK, BUTTERNUTGROUND COFFEE, DUNCAN HINES
SIMBA AND SANTANA.

PHILLIP MORRIS COMPANY: PHILLIP MORRIS, MARLBORO
PARLIAMENT, ALPINE, BENSON & HEDGES, VIRGINIA
SLIMS, PLAYER NAVY CUT

O'SULLIVAN'S GHERRILLAS

Art met with life at lunch hour in downtown Boston on wednesday — a human chain of black robed dancers, heads bent down and masked in silver, feet bare, strode slowly through the luncheon crowd at city hall plaza. a solemn powerful drumbeat marked their steps; the last hooded figure on the line dragged behind him a large black sack. People stopped, were fascinated by this outlandish procession. A crowd gathered, travelling with the dancers as they went their mournful way across the plaza to the statue at the federal building. They encircled the statue, mourning — and for the first time that massive, misbegotten bird seemed to have a meaning. Back again across the plaza they went, and by now the crowd was so thick the dancers were nearly surrounded — but always the crowd broke to make way for them. (Thank God) A powerful sight, that bent black-shrouded procession winding through the colorful, frivolous crowd — it was as if the souls of the damned were in their midst, the dead had risen to remind the living of the sins they continue to commit. The people were mystified, but few shrugged their shoulders and walked away. Most of them seemed impressed, here was something worth puzzling about. Some laughed, but in sort of an embarrassed way, as if they didn't quite get it. WE were thinking afterwards that perhaps little leaflets should have been handed out, but then, ambiguity is powerful stuff. Leave doubt in people's minds and they'll keep mulling it over. The troupe had expected the worst to happen — most had the legal aid number written on their wrists and some legal observers came from BC as official witnesses in case of trouble. But the chief trouble came from a skid row drunk who lurched around close to the dancers, (CONTINUED TO PAGE ONE)

CENTRAL COORDINATING

Following the Faculty Meeting on Wednesday, a coordinating group met to promote current activities, provide additional action participation and in general to help coordinate.

A number of action groups have been named and others will be formed as projects are undertaken. Everyone is invited to participate in a group or to suggest and organize others.

In working to coordinate activities we need everyone's cooperation in informing us of class space being used, independent activities, what help is needed etc. A large folding panel Calendar is set up in the lobby which lists all programs and notices can be added. A coordinating desk is also set up and information and questions can be directed there.

Members of the coordinating group are: Harris Barron, Lorry Burgess, Virginia Gunter, Dan Kelleher, Frank Siccone.
